LLOYD-GEORGE BIDS SINN FEIN CEASE NOTE WRITING AND ENTER CONFERENCE

But This Conference Can't Be Held on De Valera's Basis of Recognition of Independence—England Still Anxious To Find Compromise With Sinn Fein That Will Keep Ireland Within Empire.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 29.—Premier Lloyd-George today replied to Eamonn de Valera's note of September 19 inviting the Sinn Fein to send delegates to an Irish peace conference to London on October 11.

The premier reiterated the cabinet's declaration that Irish independence cannot be recognized and protests that a basis of negotiation cannot be reached through correspondence.

The text of the communication follows:

"Despite the Irish delegation's sincere desire for peace and despite the conciliatory tone of Eamonn de Valera's latest communication we cannot enter a conference on the basis of this correspondence.

"There is no purpose served by further exchange of explanatory, argumentive negotiations on this subject.

"The position taken by his majesty's government on the fundamental existence of the British Empire cannot be altered.

"Notwithstanding Mr. de Valera's personal assurance to the contrary, it might be argued in the future that acceptance of the conference upon this basis (the basis outlined in de Valera's note of September 19) involves recognition that no British government could afford. The government must guard itself against any possible doubt.

"Myself and my colleagues are extremely anxious to make arrangements to explore every possible avenue of discussion.

"The proposals made already have been taken by the whole world as proof that our endeavors for reconciliation and a settlement are no empty form and we feel that conference and not correspondence is the most practicable and most hopeful way to an understanding such as we ardently desire.

"Therefore, we send a fresh invitation for a conference in London on October 11, where we will meet your delegates as spokesmen for the people you represent with a view to ascertaining how the Irish national aspirations can best be reconciled to the government's viewpoint."

RIVENBURG TO LEAVE KINGSTON

Rivenburg, its sales manager, leaves to take up his residence at Kingston, Pa., where he will become manager of the securities department of the American Gas Company of Philadelphia, with resident office at Kingston and home office in Philadelphia.

During the 14 years Mr. Rivenburg has been in the service of the local company he has become familiar with nearly all departments of the business and by his courtesy and efficiency has become one of the most valued members of the personnel of the concern. He is one of leading members of the Kiwanis Club and prominent in social and fraternal circles.

MISS SUMMER BACK IN TOWN

With thermometers on the Strand registering 90 degrees in the shade at 1 o'clock this afternoon the good old summer time appears to have desired to play a return engagement in Kingston. So warm was it in the sun this afternoon that outer garments, that had felt comfortable, were too heavy to wear. Old residents basing their predictions on the fact that the weather following the "line storm" had turned off warm claim that there is still due considerable warm weather, and that heater fires will not have to be started for several weeks. During the chilly spell that accompanied the rain fall earlier in the week and the latter part of last week kitchen fires were started to take the chill off the living roms. But since then the fires in the kitchen stoves have been allowed to expire.

Electric Light Pole Fell.

Wednesday evening about 7:30 o'clock an electric light pole at Broadway and Spring street fell with a crash carrying with it a number of electric light wires, and plunging that part of the city into darkness until the electric company made repairs.

SINN FEIN GETS NEWEST NOTE

Dublin Regards It As Paving Way For Conference And Peace Not Inconsistent With Stand Taken By Dail Eireann.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, Sept. 29.—Optimism over an early settlement of the Irish peace problem was aroused by Premier Lloyd-George's latest note which was received here this afternoon and immediately taken under consideration by the Sinn Fein cabinet.

"The premier's letter justifies full public confidence in the proposed peace conference," said a leading member of Dail Eireann. "De Valera's answer may be drafted this evening and placed before the cabinet tomorrow."

The general impression here is that Premier Lloyd-George's note marks the final abandonment of the exchange of phrases; makes it certain that a parley will be held and offers the hope that de Valera may get better terms.

Sinn Fein leaders said they believed that they could discuss the question of how Ireland can be associated with the British empire without compromising the position taken already by Dail Eireann and the Sinn Fein cabinet.

MORE LIGHT ON GILBOA ROADS

Those To Be Built By New York City Will Be Of Dirt and Will Be Better Than Ones Closed By Reservoir Construction, Says President Gillespie of Board of Water Supply.

That the present intention of the City of New York was to build a dirt road around the Gilboa reservoir in Schoharie county, was the testimony given by George J. Gillespie, president of the Board of Water Supply of the City of New York, before the commission Wednesday afternoon. President Gillespie appeared before the commission in response to a subpoena issued out of the commission and signed by Chairman Kelly.

Mr. Gillespie, who had been president of the board of water supply since May 1, 1920, was examined by Clyde M. Proper, district attorney of Schoharie county, who appeared for the town of Gilboa. The Board of Water Supply of the city of New York has charge of the securing of water for the city and conveying it to New York city, the construction of the reservoirs, etc., but does not have charge of the maintaining of the reservoirs after completion. Questions as to maintenance of the Ashokan reservoir were not answered by Mr. Gillespie as his board has nothing to do with the Ashokan reservoir since its completion and turning over to the department of water, gas and electricity.

The various contracts entered into by the city of New York for construction of substitute highways around the Gilboa dam were produced by the city as well as contracts for two bridges. These contracts were not placed in evidence before the commission, being only marked for identification until Mr. Proper could examine them.

In an effort to get at the important fact as to what kind of highways were to be constructed around the Gilboa dam Mr. Proper put that question to the witness and it was objected to by counsel for the city of New York on the grounds that the contracts were the best evidence and spoke for themselves. However at the conclusion of the examination this objection was withdrawn and Mr. Gillespie was allowed to answer.

To the question Mr. Gillespie replied that there were three ways of answering the question. One answer was "as per contract," another answer was, "as good as the ones closed" and a third answer was, "all roads closed are dirt roads and the roads to be constructed are of dirt of better quality and better grade."

Mr. Proper objected to the witness characterizing the roads as "better" than the roads closed and Chairman Kelly held that the characterization might go out as the commission could determine if the roads were better.

Mr. Gillespie further testified that the city expected to build no other kind of road than the kind specified in the contracts entered into, these contracts calling for dirt roads.

Although Mr. Gillespie had traveled over the Ashokan boulevard he did not recall what kind of road it was except that it might be a macadam road and he did not know who maintained the Ashokan boulevard. The questions in regard to the kind of road around the Ashokan reservoir were not put with the idea of showing that this type of road must be built by the city at Gilboa but for the purpose of showing what type of road was used in other places where conditions and travel were of a similar nature and the kind of road which might be constructed.

Mr. Gillespie testified that so far as he knew there had been no consent of the town board of the town of Gilboa given to close the roads around the Gilboa project. There had been some communication with the state highway department in regard to closing the Clay Hill-Grand Gorge road during construction of this road by the state, but as this was the only way the contractors on the reservoir had of bringing in machinery the road was not closed. On account of the nature of the country it would be necessary to close the road during construction.

At the conclusion of his testimony Mr. Gillespie requested that should his appearance be again required before the commission he be notified by telephone and he would appear without a subpoena.

He further volunteered to produce any maps, plans, specifications, photos or contracts in regard to the construction of the Gilboa reservoir roads which the commission requested, provided they related to the Gilboa case, but other records in regard to other cases which did not concern the Gilboa case the city would not produce.

SHANDAKEN'S STRIKE SETTLED

The Furnier and Tobin Construction Company, Inc., who are building sewers at Shandaken for New York City had a strike on their hands over a dispute of amount of wages. A delegation of employes called upon ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier and he took up the matter with the officials of the company and went to Shandaken Wednesday evening and met the employes and the officials of the company and after some parleying the matter was adjusted satisfactorily and the men were to go to work this morning. The laborers were negroes, Mexicans and Portuguese.

ULSTER'S WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS LAGS

Annual Executive Council Meeting Held At Which Measures Are Discussed To Enlarge Work—Seal Sale To Be Held.

It was plainly shown at the annual meeting of the Executive Council of the Ulster County Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis held at the office of Judge Fowler on Wednesday evening that the people of Ulster county individually and collectively should put up a much stiffer fight against the disease in this county than has been done in the past.

The meeting of Wednesday evening was presided over by the president, Judge Fowler. The first business of the evening consisted of the reading of annual reports which were all accepted and ordered placed on file.

The report of Dr. Mary Gage-Day, the secretary, was as follows:

There have been but four meetings of the Council held the past year. The first November 1 was to arrange for the Seal Sale. Mr. Fowler was chosen local chairman, with Dr. A. C. Gates treasurer. The Federation of Women's Clubs consented to make a house to house canvass and the Home Bureau cooperated for the same in the county. In February the committee met to close the sale and turn the receipts over to the committee treasurer Mr. Hume. $2,438.15 net proceeds from city and county was turned over.

In April a meeting was held to consider turning in the old car and getting a new one. A committee was appointed and the change made. A committee was also appointed to draw suitable resolutions of appreciation to send to Miss Mary A. Hamburgher for her long and faithful service of ten years as head nurse at the hospital. A cash present of $50.00 was also sent to her which she gratefully acknowledged.

Since then the hospital buildings have been painted inside and outside, the grounds improved and the Ulster County Garden Club provided window boxes for the hospital windows and the cottage windows. This with the other improvements has made the buildings and grounds a much more attractive looking place than it has ever been before.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY GAGE DAY.
Secretary.

Treasurer Hume gave an itemized account of the year's receipts and disbursements, showing a balance of $651.35 to the credit of the Tuberculosis Camp Fund.

There were no reports from Philip Elting, chairman of the legislative committee or Sidney D. M. Hudson, chairman of the publicity committee. And as Dr. A. C. Gates is out of town on his vacation, there was no report from the Hospital and Camp Committee.

The report given by Dr. Mark O'Meara, chairman of the Dispensary, Class and Visiting Nurse Committee gave a report that should be read carefully and carefully considered by the people of both city and county. If we are ever to rid our community of tuberculosis, this report offers much food for thought. It follows:

As has been the custom of the Tuberculosis Committee at its annual meetings, on request of the treasurer, an auditing committee was appointed to audit the accounts of the committee, said committee to consist of Sam Bernstein, David Burgevin and Dr. Mary Gage-Day.

In discussing the fully appreciated improvements to the present inadequate hospital accommodations at the Ulster County Tuberculosis hospital and camp, attention was called to the very real need of new shades for all windows, and Dr. Mary Gage-Day was appointed a committee of one with power to purchase the necessary shades.

One of the most important features of the evening's session was the actual inauguration of the 1921 Christmas Seal Sale throughout Ulster county.

Any one looking over the report given by Dr. O'Meara will at once realize the need for making the coming seal sale an extraordinarily successful one that there may be more funds with which to finance the incessant and exterminating warfare needed if we are ever to get a clean bill of health in this country so far as tuberculosis is concerned.

Already word had been received of a first shipment of supplies for the forthcoming sale, and it was voted that Judge Fowler, chairman of the Tuberculosis Committee, should be chairman of the sale and Dr. A. C. Gates, treasurer for the sale. Chairmen of working committees will be appointed throughout the county, and the Federation of Women's Clubs will be asked to repeat their good services of last year in caring for the sale in the city.

Before the meeting adjourned, there was a careful and considerable discussion of the problem of more facilities for caring for tuberculosis patients with especial reference to the needs of incipient cases, in other words a new hospital.

The final business of the meeting was the election of officers for the coming year which resulted as follows:

President, Judge Joseph M. Fowler; secretary, Dr. Mary Gage-Day; treasurer, Cornelius Hume; vice presidents, the Rev. Dean [illegible], Sam Bernstein, Mrs. Clara N. Reed, the Rev. John H. [illegible], the Rev. Charles G. Ellis.

CITY'S STOCK OF ICE EXHAUSTED

And Local Dealers Are Buying Supplies of Knickerbocker Ice Company, Who Have but 15,000 Tons on Hand—Retail Pices to Advance.

Owing to the extremely warm weather of the past summer there was a bigger demand for ice than at any other time within the past fifteen years, and as a result the stocks of the local retail dealers are now exhausted, and they have been obliged to replenish them by purchasing cargoes of ice from the Knickerbocker Ice Company. The Knickerbocker Ice Company have about 15,000 tons of ice on hand in the ice houses along the Hudson river, which under normal conditions will supply the river towns for about three weeks.

As the local dealers have to pay more for the ice, they are now getting, they have been forced to advance the retail price in the city. During the past season, however, Kingston dealers have been selling ice at a lower price than that prevailing in other cities of the Hudson river valley, and even with an advance in price, it will not exceed the price that ice has been retailed at in Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and other cities, this summer.

There was no ice harvested on the Hudson river last winter by the Knickerbocker Ice Company, and the trade has been supplied with ice carried over from the previous winter. In this vicinity, there is but little ice left. All of the houses are practically empty with the exception of the Esopus house, which will be emptied today.

As fast as the houses are emptied, they are being gotten ready for the coming winter, and icemen hope for plenty of brisk cold weather so that the houses may be filled.

So far the Knickerbocker Ice Company have sold 2,000 tons of ice to Kingston dealers to keep the trade supplied. They have also been supplying the dealers at Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Hudson and other river towns.

It is expected that enough ice will be obtained to keep the city supplied until winter sets in.

Fast Time at Columbus Track.

At the grand circuit races at Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, Grey Worthy, with McMahon driving, in the 2:12 class trot, made the fastest mile in a trotting race of the season, going the second mile in 2:02½. The gelding also lowered the record set for this event in 1917 by Early Dreams by two full seconds. Murphy, in an effort to have Peter Manning lower his track record of 1:59 1-4, succeeded in making the mile in 1:59 flat.

The little bears threw up their paws and shouted:

"Hurrah, hurrah! vacation time has come."

"Yes," said Mother Bear, "you have all learned to play happily and to feed well. You know what is good to eat and what isn't. You've learned how to climb trees and you will know how you must go to sleep when the winter time comes, and how you must roll yourselves up in your own furry beds and have nice bear dreams in the winter dens.

"You have learned to play all the games that bears should learn. And it is well to know how to play. Anyone is so much happier who knows how to play.

"The kind of a person who can't play anything is not very happy.

"You have learned that the place where the bees can sting you when you steal their honey is upon your dear little unprotected noses.

"You've learned all of this. You've learned to fight bravely and well if need be, but you've learned that you needn't fight for the sake of fighting.

"You know that you mustn't go after men. If they attack you it is a different matter. But never, never must you attack men first.

"You know that berries and fruits and nice, delicious roots make the best meals for you.

"Such meals make you healthy and wise. And all bears should be healthy and wise.

"Yes, you know all these lessons. And you know how to smell from a distance so you know whether there is food ahead or whether there is danger in front of you.

"You know that you have cousins such as the Black Bears and the Cinnamon Bears, but you are the Grizzly Bears and you belong to a wonderful family of bears.

"I would rather belong to the Grizzly family than any other family. We're big in size and we are very fine.

"You know that when it is necessary for you to strike you must stand on your hind legs. Then you will not only be able to defend and look after yourselves better, but you will look so powerful and so strong.

"Yes, you know all of these things. I cannot think of anything else which I haven't taught you which you should learn.

"Ah, you've been a pride and a joy to Mother Bear and she has been so happy teaching you the lessons you have learned.

"And when you go off for adventures think wisely for there are always apt to be adventures which I haven't told you about and you will have to be quick and use your brains."

"We will, Mother Bear. Never fear, never fear.

"And, Mother Bear," they added, "do you think we are too old to have a few games, as it is vacation time and our lessons are over? You do not think it will be undignified of us to play games, do you?"

"Not a bit of it," said Mother Bear.

So the bears played and had a very fine time, and when their playing was all over with Mother Bear said:

"I know a nice berry patch down the woods a short distance. How about ending off with a dish of berries?"

"We won't bother about the dish part of it, but how about ending off with a meal of berries?"

"Fine," said all the bears.

"And we will grow so fat that we will not need to eat all winter, but will curl up in our den homes in the old trunks of trees, and will not need to think of food.

"We will eat enough, quite enough."

"Let's be sure that we do," said the first bear.

"Let's be certain that we do," said the second bear.

"Ah, yes, let's be sure of that," said the third bear.

"We must certainly want to be sure that we do eat enough," said the fourth bear.

And they all ate enough so that they would not feel hungry later on.

For that is the way the bears do!

Reassuring.

"Well, my boy, any college debts?"

"Nothing, sir, but what with diligence, economy and stern self-denial you will be able to pay."

Surely.

Maternal love is the most wonderful thing in the world. Even the mother of a practicing cornet player would hate to have him die.

TEN TO ONE—WILD BILL'S GREATEST FIGHT

When the Overland stage route to the Colorado gold fields was established shortly before the Civil war, one of the bravest drivers in its employ was a young man from Illinois named James B. Hickok. In 1861 Hickok was taken off the stages and put in charge of the Rock Creek station, west of Topeka, Kan., in a region filled with gangs of outlaws and highway robbers. One of these, known as the McCandlass gang, invited Hickok to join them and, upon his refusal threatened to visit him some day and make him regret his defiance.

"You'll find me here any time you come," was Hickok's reply.

A few days later the McCandlass gang did find him there. They attacked him in his dug-out, battered down the door and Jim McCandlass, the leader, sprang into the room. He was killed by a bullet from Hickok's rifle. Three more of the gang were shot down with a pistol before the other six drew their bowie knives and rushed upon him.

"Then I went wild," said Hickok in telling of the fight afterwards. Desperately wounded but terrible in his berserker rage, he came to grips with the outlaws, and when the fight was over eight of the ten were dead and the other two fled for their lives. Ever afterward Hickok was known as "Wild Bill."

Later Wild Bill enlisted in the Union army as a scout. He served with General Curtis in Arkansas and repeatedly entered the Confederate lines as a spy. More than once he was discovered and forced to flee, and more than once the fleetness and intelligence of his favorite horse, "Black Nell," saved his life. He was a sharpshooter at the Battle of Pea Ridge, where he distinguished himself by killing the Confederate general, McCullough.

After the war Bill returned to Kansas and became a scout for General Custer, who set a high value on his services and who once said: "Whether on foot or on horseback, Wild Bill was one of the most perfect types of physical manhood I have ever seen." From 1867 to 1870 Hickok served as marshal of Hays City and Abilene, Kan.

Hickok's adventurous career came to an end in the Black Hills of South Dakota. He had gone there with the first gold rush and in some way had incurred the enmity of Jack McCall, a gambler. On August 2, 1876, McCall treacherously shot him in the back as he sat playing cards with some of his friends.

GOOD THINGS TO CHERISH.

The following recipes are worth putting into the family cook book for once tried they will be used again and again.

Italian Tutti-Frutti Ice.—The combination of fruit for this delicious dish may be made to conform to one's taste and the season. Oranges, plums, strawberries, raspberries, small balls of watermelon, apricots and other fruits in season. The pulp and grated rind of the oranges are used. The stones from plums and apricots are removed and the fruit is weighed, allowing an equal weight of sugar. Make layers of the fruit and sugar, having the sugar on top. Let stand over night and in the morning just bring to the boiling point to make sure that the sugar is dissolved. Do not boil, however; cool and when cold freeze as for any ice.

Grape Juice Ice.—Take one pint of sweetened grape juice, one quart of thin cream, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, taste and sweeten if necessary, then freeze. Serve in sherbet cups, top with whipped cream or a spoonful of vanilla ice cream.

Old Southern Cake.—Cream three-fourths of a pound of butter, add one and one-half pounds of sugar. When well mixed add the yolks of six eggs well beaten, then three-fourths pound of pastry flour, about three cupfuls sifted with one-half a grated nutmeg and one teaspoonful of ground cloves, added alternately with one pint of rich milk. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites and one pound of sultana raisins chopped and mixed with flour. Bake in a large pan, about three inches deep, the batter half filling the pan.

Tomato With Macaroni.—Mix two cupfuls of well cooked macaroni or spaghetti with one cupful of white sauce, sprinkle with one-half cupful of grated cheese. Spread this on a deep glass pie plate. Over the top place tomatoes cut in halves, cut side up. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with bits of butter, and sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake in a hot oven until the tomatoes are soft but unbroken.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

This little miss is quite a figure in [illegible] Miss Marie Curtis, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, who is probably the most consistent distance swimmer in California. She won the Pacific coast mile championship for women at Capitola, in the fast time of 32 minutes 53 and 3-5 seconds. On September 10 she set a new record for the famous Golden Gate swim at San Francisco Harbor, covering the difficult course in 25 minutes and 14 seconds, which is 2 minutes and 1 second faster than the former mark. She is 18 years old.

The latest invention in the way of labor-saving devices is the apparatus pictured here, which takes the place of twenty men, according to the inventor. It is an auto-truck attachment which automatically bores post-holes. It consists of a huge earth-boring auger on the end of a twelve-foot geared shaft, mounted on the front of the chassis of an ordinary automobile truck. The power plant of the truck furnishes the power for the boring machinery—the simple expedient of disengaging the clutch of the truck and throwing in that of the boring apparatus being the only operation necessary in digging a hole of any depth down to ten feet. The driver operates the entire mechanism from his seat on the truck. After the hole is bored the permanent derrick on the body of the truck lifts the pole from the roadside and drops it into the hole ready for the army of "tampers" who follow.

CENTRAL OBJECTS TO ASSESSMENTS

Railroad Begins Annual Certiorari Proceedings To Review Kingston Assessments Which It Claims Are Excessive.

The annual certiorari proceedings taken by the New York Central Railroad Company to review the assessment of the property of the West Shore and Wallkill Valley Railroad Companies in the city of Kingston have been commenced against Assessor Morris Block and are returnable before Judge Hasbrouck at the special term of the Supreme court to be held at the court house in this city on Saturday, November 5.

The petition on which Judge Hasbrouck granted his order recites that the West Shore railroad property within the city consists of 2.67 miles of double track, with station property, etc., and the property of the Wallkill Valley consists of 1.301 miles of single track road.

Assessor Block's assessment of the West Shore railroad property for 1921 is $582,175, but the railroad company claims it should not exceed $250,000. His assessment of the Wallkill Valley property for 1921 is $19,800, which the railroad company claims should not exceed $17,400. Other properties within the city, according to the contention of the railroad company, are not assessed to exceed eighty per cent of their value.

In 1915, the petition states, there was a general increase of assessments in the city, and in each year beginning with 1915 the railroad company has taken certiorari proceedings against the assessor to review the assesment of the railroad property in this city. The 1915 proceedings were referred to the Hon. George McClellan as referee, as well as the proceedings for the years 1916, 1917, 1918 and 1919. The 1915 case was decided by the referee who determined that the value of the West Shore railroad property was $500,000, and that the value of the Wallkill Valley railroad property was $23,184. The referee also determined that for the year 1915 the assessment of property in the city of Kingston was at 75 per cent of its value, and that the assessment of the West Shore property for that year should be $375,000 and for the Wallkill Valley property should be $17,388.

The proceedings before referee McClellan for the other years mentioned are undetermined.

The certiorari proceedings for the year 1920 were referred to the Hon. Herbert F. Roy of Troy as referee and are pending.

The railroad company in its petition states there has been no marked change in the railroad property since 1915.

Amos Van Etten is counsel for the railroad company.

TWO DIVORCES.

Tracy Gorsline And Sadie Van Aken Secure Divorces.

Judge Hasbrouck has granted a final decree of divorce in favor of Tracy Gorsline against his wife, Lucy Gorsline. Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier represented Mr. Gorsline.

The action of Sadie Van Aken against Abram Van Aken for a divorce, was tried before Judge Hasbrouck Wednesday. After hearing the testimony he granted Mrs. Van Aken a decree of divorce. Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier represented Mrs. Van Aken and Judge Schirick appeared for Mr. Van Aken.

What Mr. Smith Counted.

With the advent of the automobile the horse is said to be gradually disappearing from the city streets, but Wednesday Cortland Smith, a member of the street department stationed on Broadway between McEntee street and West Chestnut street, counted 208 horses that passed him on Broadway within seven hours that day.

A Punch Board Seized.

This morning Sergeant Phinney of the police department visited the store of William Diamond on McEntee street, and seized a punch board, which was later destroyed by the department on the ground that it was a gambling device.

Just what will be the feeling of the opposing pitchers when Babe Ruth, Sultan of Swat, faces them in the world series is hard to say, especially if the bases are filled. But, if you have a good imagination here is the time to put it to use. They might succeed in sweating a couple of strikes over on Bambino, but with the big one left, Ruth takes a toe hold in the ground with his cleated shoes, clinches his jaw and attempts to murder the next ball that is anywhere near the plate. Above are four different poses of Ruth, showing him at the beginning of this mighty swing and carrying it through. The illustration also shows his hard grip on the bat and his keen eye.

GERMANS WILL SMILE.

The Germans, who were denounced as scientific savages during the war, are likely to smile broadly when they learn that America now leads in the invention of deadly poison gases and that our military experts regard such destructive agencies as legitimate. A recent canvass by David Lawrence, the Washington correspondent, of our military authorities "develops the fact that the American army holds chemical warfare to be a recognized and desirable means of warefare—that is, just as desirabie as any other means of killing the troops of the enemy." Poison gas "has come to stay" because our experts "insist that the gas bomb is just as humane as the torpedo or 1,000-pound shell." The public "has little idea of the awfulness of the new agencies of war, but the experts declare that the more destructive an agency the more unlikely is there to be war." No doubt this was precisely the reasoning of the Germans when they began a practice for which they were execrated throughout the world.

Of course, our experts hold that gas should be used only against enemy troops and that submarine tordepoes should not be used against ships carying non-combatants, but in the confusion and under the pressing demands of war non-combatants are likely to become victims in both cases if such engines of war are employed. Inevitably there will be ignorance or pretended ignorance of the presence of non-combatants. The correspondent quoted is doubtless correct, however, when he says: "Any idea that our army experts will advise the American delegation to the conference on limitation of armament to propose the abolition of poison gases can be dismissed as out of the question."

A Washington, D. C., paper, which is, of course, much interested in keeping up the local government payroll, protests against the dismissal of navy yard employes who are not needed. The argument is advanced that the Government should keep its organization together for future use. That might be a sound argument if there were any probability of needing the men in the future, but since the Navy Department is returning to a peace basis and reducing the war-time scale of employment, there is no prospect whatever of future need of the surplus men. When taxpayers are groaning under the burden of taxes they can not raise the money to pay, it is utter folly to argue that the government should retain on its payrolls men it does not need. There is neither honesty nor sense in robbing Peter to pay Paul.

London is in receipt of information to the effect that an attack will soon be made on India over the border of Afghanistan. It is reported that careful preparations for the opening of hostilities have been made by the soviet government of Russia, which has furnished the natives with the most modern weapons of warfare. Many of the guns, airplanes, etc., bear marks of German manufacture, and [illegible] officers are training the people in their handling. While all this is going on, America is rescuing the civilian population of Russia from famine. It is a worthy act, of course, to save poor people from death by starvation, but when such a course makes possible the maintenance of armies busily spreading death and destruction, it becomes a question whether such a policy is warranted.

In August of this year the United States exported 38,336,529 bushels of wheat. The figure is more than twice as large as any other monthly export figures during or since the war. Such a large foreign trade in foodstuffs can not but bring prosperity to this country. Anything that enables the farmers to dispose of their surplus stocks at reasonable prices strikes at the root of all industrial evil.

King Constantine of Greece is seeking the release of a credit of $22,000,000 still held by his country in the United States Treasury. The credit is a hold-over from the former administration, when it was comparatively easy for European countries to get promises of millions from the United States. The agreement to pay having been made, there is probably an obligation on our part to live up to it, but the handing over of such a huge sum to a practically bankrupt nation does not appeal to many Americans. We have the assurance of King Constantine, however, that the money will not be used in his war against Turkey. The reply might be made that the payment of the money will release other funds for use against the Turks.

The league of nations has no relish for taking up the fight over the boundary line between Chile and Bolivia, as urged by the latter country. The facility with which the United States settled a similar controversy between Panama and Costa Rica has evidently had its lesson for the conferees at Geneva.

Somebody wrote inquiring if there is "an American edition of the New York World?" In view of the lengths to which that paper has gone in defense of the last administration and the league of nations, the question is not surprising.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Is the peacock's "fan" really a tail?

No; anyone looking at the bird sideways or from the rear, when the train is spread, will see that these showy feathers are not a tail at all. They are almost midway up the back, those at the side drooping forward in front of the wings. The actual tail feathers serve as supports to the train, however, when it is lifted.

2. Will skunks kill snakes?

Yes, snakes and other cold-blooded creatures like toads, frogs and salamanders. Skunk diet is animal, many mice and gophers and insects or their grubs being included. Small garter snakes are liked and unfortunately bird eggs and fledglings, with poultry at times. The rats killed probably off-set the damage done to poultry, rats themselves being egg thiefs.

3. How many fish hatcheries are there in the United States?

If private ones are counted, we don't know the number. The federal government has 36 main hatcheries and many local branches. British Columbia has extensive salmon hatcheries. Many states hatch fish under their own management. Bass, shad, pike, codfish and mackerel are some of the food fishes reared, and constant experiments are being made with shell fishes.

Being a Story

Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

Jim happened to be passing the detective agency, in search of work, when the idea came to him to make a place for himself in the agency. On several occasions he had been very successful in solving mysteries, and he considered that he had the right to call himself a man of experience.

After some delay, he was finally put on a job which he disliked immensely. But glad to have obtained work of any sort, he offered no objections, but tackled the unpleasant stunt at once.

A Mrs. Harris was suing her husband for divorce. In fighting the claim, Mr. Harris wished to procure evidence against his wife which would damage her testimony against him, and allow the divorce to be granted to him rather than to her. Jim had read some of the woman's testimony in the newspaper, and felt such a deep loathing for the man that he preferred to have nothing to do with him, but—!

"Mr. Harris believes that his wife is too friendly with her lawyer, and hopes to [illegible] correspondent in the case. His evidence is still weak. We must strengthen it. Now, young man, if you want to work for this concern, you must get busy procuring that evidence. We will make it well worth your while."

Jim left the office, soothing his conscience with the thought that if the woman was guilty she deserved no sympathy from him. If she were not guilty, she had nothing to fear from his espionage. All day he watched her house. At six o'clock, a luxurious car stopped at the door and immediately, as though, she had been waiting for its arrival, Mrs. Harris descended the stairs and entered the machine. She was cordially greeted by the occupant, a middle aged man of fine carriage and appearance.

Jim followed in a taxi, and during the evening kept the woman constantly in view. She was with the man all the time, at supper, at the theatre, and at the cabaret till midnight. He took her home, and after a lengthy stay, drove away in his machine.

Jim reported the next morning at the office, and after receiving hearty praise for his good work, continued his vigil at the Harris home. As on the day before, he was forced to wait until six o'clock. This time, the man entered the house; and on a pretext of delivering a letter to Mr. Harris, Jim gained admittance, just in time to witness the endearing caress given Mrs. Harris by the man.

Filled with scorn for the woman, Jim handed in his last report, and was turning to leave the office, when the boss stopped him. "This is good work—very satisfactory work. We've got her where we want her—thanks to you. But, just to check up every point, suppose you have a squint at this picture. That's the guy she's been going with, all right, isn't it?"

"Why, no," stammered Jim. "I haven't seen him at all."

"Are you sure, man? Look again."

Jim shook his head. "No, he's a stranger to me. Who is he?"

The boss groaned. "He's the lawyer we are trying to get up a case against. I thought you were giving us evidence against him and the woman. Who was she with, then? What does the man look like? We might work up a case against the other fellow too."

Jim gave a thoughtful description of Mrs. Harris's daily visitor, growing alarmed as he witnessed the black expression of anger cloud the boss's face. He seized another photograph and held it before Jim's eye.

"That's the fellow," cried Jim. "I'd know him anywhere."

"Yes," groaned the man, "lots of good it will do us. That man is her father."

Reprisal!

There's a little boy in our town who was given a puppy for Christmas, and the gift being at the puppish age, when everything looks good to chew, he bites harder sometimes than he should. One morning, several days after Christmas, the little dog ran howling from the room. When the little boy's mother inquired what was the matter he replied: "He bit my finger and he can't learn to stop bitin', so I bit his ear."—Topeka Journal.

"3 WISE FOOLS" HERE SATURDAY

"Rich in humor, faultlessly presented and a decided innovation in comedy," is the way the Utica Herald-Dispatch describes the production of "Three Wise Fools," which has just completed a two days' engagement at the Colonial Theatre, Utica. This same company will present "Three Wise Fools" at the Kingston Opera House Saturday matinee and evening.

Screamingly funny in parts and yet with just enough pathos to make it intensely interesting and novel, this mirth provoker of the superlative degree, proves a highly delightful vehicle to the great satisfaction of those who are so fortunate to witness its presentation.

The silly philosophy of the confirmed bachelors, banded together through a strange event in their youths, is the medium through which Austin Strong, a playwright gifted with a pronounced sense of humor, makes the funny bones of critical public respond generously without the use of a bedroom scene or a display of lingerie.

Loving the same girl in their younger days and all left in the lurch by this miss, these three, one a cynical old financier, another a philosophical doctor and the third a serious-minded jurist, pool their interests and live together in a fashionable Gotham apartment, doing the very same thing at the same time each day. They follow the same program day in and day out until their old sweetheart dies and bequeaths to them her daughter. Things begin to happen with the arrival of their ward. Wonders are worked by the charming miss and a series of surprises develop, all of which makes the play vividly interesting. The girl has some associations that are suspicious and after lifting the three old cronies out of a rut high into the realm of happiness, she is involuntarily responsible for a precipitation that lands them all back where they were before. Then come a most pleasing climax.

Mrs. Olive Phillips of Los Angeles, California, tells her story of success. Five years ago she was practically without a cent; today she is the owner of a ninety-eight apartment hotel in which she houses a number of millionaires. She is worth $150,000, and she accounts this as only the beginning. Mrs. Phillips started on the road to success by winning a prize-story contest. She started a rooming house, and as success gradually came to her she began to enlarge upon her opportunities and continually increased the size of her houses by buying and reselling until she acquired the ninety-eight apartment hotel. She is now on tour of the United States and Canada, studying methods of other successful hostelries, so that she may be able to apply their methods and make improvements upon her own.

HAS POSITION TO MAINTAIN

Drum-Horse of British and American Cavalry Bands Must Be of Distinguished Appearance.

There are grades of honor, even among horses. We are apt to think of the war horse as a proud animal, and so he is, and has a right to be, for he is called upon to be as brave as he is proud. But proudest and most dignified of all horses of the army is the animal that is called upon to fill the position of drum-horse in the regimental band. In the American and British armies cavalry bands are mounted, and the most honorable position in all the band is that of the bearer of the kettle-drums. The horse is selected for his distinguished appearance. He is often piebald, altho sometimes pure white.

Something more than mere beauty of form is required of the drum-horse. He must be trained until he becomes a dignified and graceful bearer of the handsome trappings that pertain to his high calling. His education is severe and prolonged bringing him up to that point where his pride and intelligence make him equal to the duties required of him.

He is severely tried by the booming of the large drums he carries, but in time he becomes indifferent to their noise. In the parade, his rider has his hands full in the use of the sticks; he controls the horse by means of reins fastened to the stirrup-strap near the foot.—Christian Science Monitor.

Beautiful Ruins of Melrose.

Melrose, a pleasant little village in England at the foot of the Eildon hills, is famous for the ruins of the Cistercian abbey, founded by King David I in 1136, destroyed during the Wars of the Successions, and then rebuilt, being completed in the Sixteenth century. The ruins indicate it was a noble structure with wonderful tracery and carvings.

Matrimonial—Japanese young man, aged twenty-seven, solicits personal marriage proposal from a modest, but nevertheless courageous, female of sound morality, highly disciplined, and desirably one who has suffered deeply in life. Communicate to "Sincerity," care of Japan Times, Tokyo.—From the Japan Times and Mail, Tokyo.

Peculiarly Hard to Explain.

It is a curious thing that the names given to male and female animals, before they are used when dressed and prepared for food are Norman. For example, the words "ox," "steer," "cow" are Saxon, but "veal" is Norman. "Sheep" is Saxon, but "mutton" is Norman; so it is generally with "swine" and "pork," "deer" and "venison," "fowl" and "poultry."

Beards in History.

Pliny, we are informed, "observes that people Africanus was the man who introduced the fashion of the daily shave, and the Russians wore beards until Czar Peter enjoined them all to shave, but he was obliged to keep on foot a number of officers to cut off, by violence, the beards of such as would not otherwise part with them."

Told of John Burroughs.

John Burroughs, the naturalist, was not interested in nature's larger aspects. Geysers and volcanoes bored him. His one exception was the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, which he called "the Divine Abyss." Despite his intentness on study when a boy, Burroughs was fond of girls and kept a systematic record of his engagements with them, writers on his life say.

The Mormons.

The Mormons were the earliest American pioneers, who made the desert "blossom as the rose," and that in the face of great privations and difficulties. They had been preceded, thousands of years before, by ancient and forgotten southwestern peoples, whose canals, in some cases, they utilized. Mormons landed in San Francisco, on the Brooklyn, in July, 1846, and in 1851 founded San Bernardino, in southern California, purchasing twenty-seven square miles of the Lugo ranch, for $77,500, in deferred payments.—Los Angeles Times.

President Zachary Taylor.

Zachary Taylor is one of the least known of our presidents. He held office only 16 months, but in that time displayed such courage and strength of character as to endear himself to the people. He came to the office practically unknown and unknowing. His victories in the Mexican war had made him famous, but he was not known to the politicians, nor did he know any of them. He had been called "Old Rough and Ready," but he was not such a blustering, uncouth man as people had thought.

IS POOR BARGAIN

Foolish Indeed for Man to Sell Himself to Evil.

Many Have Done It Unconsciously, and Their Reward Has Always Been Exceedingly Small.

More than one writer has been fascinated by the idea of selling one's soul to the devil. Indeed, that thought has served as the basis of many a poem and plot.

The idea is that of a man bargaining his soul to Satan for all eternity on condition that for a limited period he may enjoy all possible pleasure. The thought is most familiar, perhaps, in the tragedy of Faust; but that was neither the beginning nor the end of it.

You may find the idea in the "Arabian Nights," and no one knows how old those roots of the literature may be. Balzac, in "The Magic Skin" portrayed it. Oscar Wilde had the essential idea in "Dorian Gray." Stevenson had it in his "Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

All these authors were honest enough to show that, in the end, the game was not worth the candle. Imagine the terror of the possessor of all the wishes of the "Magic Skin" as he realized that with every wish the skin shrank, and its power of sensual gratification lessened!

How many times, as his pleasures began to pall upon him, must Faust have regretted his bargain!

If there is any justification of the exploitation of the idea of a bargain with the devil, either in the opera of Faust or in a novel or in the movies, it is the plain lesson at the end that the sort of bargain which the devil offers does not pay.

But there is one mistake which men often make with regard to this matter, which is in supposing that this is the real way in which the thing is done.

As a matter of fact, men sell themselves unconsciously and for very much less than the devil is supposed to offer in any of these works of fiction.

Read the story of the next scandal with murder following it, and find, if you are curious, when the bargain with the devil was made and in what sort the devil paid.

For the devil pays. Judas got his 30 pieces of silver; Faust had Marguerite.

But the devil is even more prompt in his collections.

If you do not believe it, read the Bible or the daily papers.

The reward of sin is death. The devil gets his due.

But how little does the man get who sells his soul to the devil!—Dr. William E. Barton in the Chicago Post.

Koreans Flock to Holy Place.

Kelyong, the lonely mountain of Korea, is experiencing a real estate boom that makes the oil-town promoter pale into insignificance. On a tiny piece of land on the mountain side are now encamped 2,562 persons forming 518 households, while hundreds more are gathered at the base, bidding high prices for the privilege of buying a bit of land among the favored. The Korean prophet Chyong Kam, whose writings have been preserved in the ancestral mausoleum of the one-time imperial family of Korea, long ago prophesied that Mount Kelyong would be chosen as the religious center of the sect which he founded and as the future capital and metropolis of the peninsula. His prophecy has recently been given great publicity, and thousands of Koreans now are flocking to the mountain, firm in their belief that it is to be one of the greatest cities of the world, and that they are "getting in on the ground floor."

Restoring Black Walnut.

In an effort to restore the black walnut 150 bushels of seed have recently been planted at Mont Alto, Pa., and next spring it is expected that fully 100,000 seedlings will be available for replanting in groves in various parts of the state.

It is not difficult to start a walnut plantation, says the American Forestry Magazine, and it cites the case of an Indian farmer in the Far West, who, a few years ago, after an exceptionally heavy seed year, drove his wagon down to the Wabash bottoms and shoveled it full of nuts and litter. Then going up to his field he spread the nuts from the tail of the cart on the frozen ground in the same way manure is spread. In the spring when the frost was coming out of the ground and the soil was soft he had his boys take wooden mallets and go out and pound into the soil every nut they could see. It is reported that he has an excellent young grove at the present time.

Sucked Infant's Breath.

An old and weird tale of cats killing children by inhaling the breath was corroborated by an incident which has occurred in Atlantic City. Awakened by a gasping sound from his nine-months-old daughter, a man discovered a huge black cat perched on the child's chest, sucking the infant's breath. He hurled the animal through a window. The baby was unconscious and barely alive when a physician reached the house. The child was not resuscitated until a half hour later. The animal did not belong to the family and must have entered the room through an open window. It is said that cats in instances of this sort are attracted by the faint odor of milk on the infant's breath.

The Echo Came.

The mother of a five-year-old child was admonishing him to be a better boy, when the father who was present jokingly remarked, "It can't be did, it can't be did." Later when the little boy was saying his evening prayer just before retiring he invoked the Supreme Being to make him a better boy. Continuing, he said: "Make daddy a good man," then hesitating in his supplication he remarked, "It can't be did, daddy, it can't be did."—Columbus Dispatch.

Reprisal.

There's a little boy in our town who was given a puppy for Christmas, and the gift being at the puppish age, when everything looks good to chew, he bites harder sometimes than he should. One morning, several days after Christmas, the little dog ran howling from the room. When the little boy's mother inquired what was the matter he replied: "He bit my finger and he can't learn to stop biting, so I bit his ear."—Topeka Journal.

Best Equipped Mine.

The Brynmawr colliery, South Wales, is considered by expert mining engineers to be the most modern and best equipped in the world. It is worked entirely by electrical power, and is probably the only colliery in the kingdom which does not use horses and does not raise a train of rabbits.

Testing Age of Trees.

Trees often live to a great age, and while they are standing it is a difficult matter to arrive at their age, but when they have been cut down, it is said, the age may be reckoned by counting the number of rings visible in the section.—Indianapolis News.

LEAGUE BUYS NESTLE'S PLANTS

Announcement is made by W. W. Hovey, general manager of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, that negotiations were completed on September 27 for the purchase from the Nestle's Food Company of several large plants in Chenango and Otsego counties.

This is about the most important piece of dairy news that has occurred in a long time and will be received with enthusiasm by thousands of Dairymen's League farmers and especially by those in the Nestle's territory. It evidently marks the beginning of the end of a long fight between the dairymen's organization and the Nestle's Food Company, with the dairymen coming through on top.

Plants purchased by the league include the large condensery at Cooperstown and the following smaller plants surrounding the Cooperstown plant and used as receivers for the main plant: East Springfield, Schuyler Lake, Hartwick and Laurens. Other plants purchased were the Mt. Upton, Edmeston, Burlington Flats and West Edmeston.

It is expected the league will take possession October 15.

Many Native Negro Languages.

Native Negro languages are a marvel. There are about eight hundred, and more than one hundred have been reduced to writing, said a missionary who has just returned from three years' travel over Africa. We know not for how many generations these languages have been passed from lip to ear, from parent to child, and from tribe to tribe.

If you do not wish your stair carpet to wear unevenly, put padding underneath it. There are pads prepared expressly for this use, but wanting these or anything of sufficient body to protect it, use newspapers, on the stair and folded so that they will project three or four inches beyond the stair. If thick enough they will save a great deal of wear and tear of the carpet, also deaden the sound of footsteps.

RUTHLESS WORK OF HUNTERS

Lovers of Wild Life Aroused Over the Wholesale Slaughter of Large Antelope Herd.

Indignation has been aroused among those interested in the conservation of wild animals, over the slaughter by hunters of at least half the antelope in a large herd that makes its home in the open country northwest of Swift Current, Saskatchewan.

The herd lived unmolested for years and at its maximum numbered 300 animals. Hunters began to make clandestine raids on the herd last fall and kept up their depredations during the winter. At the opening of spring not more than 150 antelope were left.

Prong-horn antelope, once rivals of the bison in number on the plains of North America have been almost exterminated. This is one of the few wild herds remaining on the continent. When the Hudson's Bay company was the sovereign power on the prairies the land which is now rapidly selling to farm settlers swarmed with antelope. Now only a few hundreds are left of the hosts.

The antelope of the United States have shared the fate of those of Canada. Except for a few fugitive bands in desert wastes all the wild antelope have disappeared. The greatest herd left on the continent is in Yellowstone park under government protection. Small herds also are flourishing in government parks in Montana and Oklahoma. Antelope are prolific and multiply rapidly under favorable conditions.

The Canadian government has been notified of the decimation of the Swift Current herd by hunters and asked to take immediate steps to save the antelope from extermination.

INSIST ON CLOSED WINDOWS

Antipathy of Europeans to Anything Like Fresh Air Strikes Americans as Astonishing.

The most difficult thing for an American traveling in Europe, outside of England, is to have a window opened in the dining room of a hotel or on a train. I saw an aged French baron at Mentone enter the dining room of a hotel with two valets and a famed waiter who was engaged specially to keep out the slightest draught.

It is pretty warm in the south of France in May and the sun was striking on the glass sides of the dining room, but the baron felt a chill. The waiter went to each window and plugged up imaginary crevices with serviettes and a mallet, but still his patron called out at intervals: "Il y a un courant d'air." The two valets at his side fed him with the choicest tidbits from the table, but he was not satisfied. Just before I left the energetic waiter found a keyhole which had not been used for a quarter of a century and plugged it up.

When I was at the Krupp factory in Essen in May, the chief engineer took me from one building to another in a fine limousine car belonging to one of the directors. It was a very hot day and I suggested that we might have a window opened. The chief engineer tried them all without success, and then spoke to the chauffeur. He said they had never been opened since the car came from the factory. The director had only had it two years, he added.—New York Times.

MR. BOWSER, HE SORROWS

His Office Boy Meets With a Fatal Accident.

By M. QUAD.

(©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mr. Bowser came home to dinner with a look of sorrow on his face.

Mrs. Bowser noticed it the first thing, but, thinking he had a slight case of the colic, she did not say anything. At the dinner table, she likewise noticed that he had tears in his eyes at times, and she intended, when the meal was finished, to recommend some eye-water to him. When they had retired to the sitting room and Mr. Bowser had sat down and sighed six or seven times, Mrs. Bowser kindly inquired:

"Dear, aren't you feeling as well as usual this evening?"

"No, I'm not," was his reply. "I have been through a strenuous day. What I have seen today will forever cling to my memory even if I should live a thousand years."

"Then you have seen something?" she asked.

"I have, Mrs. Bowser—I have stood face to face with death and it was the death of one very near to me."

"Did the roof of your office fall in?"

"Don't be silly. My office boy is dead. One moment he was alive and in bounding spirits; the next moment he was a dead boy."

"Why, that surely was a bad accident," said Mrs. Bowser. "You told me, about a month ago, that you had changed your boys. Was this the new boy?"

"It was. His name was Nero Fitzsimmons and he had been with me just a month. The old boy, who had been with me about five years, became dissatisfied with his wages. He turned to painting. He got so he could paint a pig pen and so he joined the painters' union. They went on a strike a few days ago for eight hours a day, five days in a week and seven dollars a day, and the boy shook hands with me and departed. Yes, this was the new boy. He was a good boy, as all office boys are. He carried off my gold pen, carried off my postage stamps, and picked up any loose change lying about, but he did so with innocent intent. He believed that things were not evenly divided up. He believed that he had a right to have my property and so he tried to acquire it. Poor Nero! Shall I ever find another like him?"

"But about his death?" queried Mrs. Bowser.

"My office is on the eighth floor of a skyscraper, you know. There were some men working on the sidewalk, and Nero leaned out of the window to watch them. They saw him and asked him some questions. As near as I could make out, his answer was that they might go to the devil. Nero was a bit emphatic in his language, but he didn't mean anything by it. His heart was as innocent as that of a lion. One of the men threatened to punch Nero's head, and the innocent boy leaned far out of the window to make faces and shake his fist. He leaned too far. I was about to reprimand him when he fell. Alas, poor Nero fell to his death! He struck on the men and then bounded ed to the walk, and he had breathed his last before I could get down to him. I lifted up his head and talked to him in my usual fatherly way, but his soul had fled. Every bone in his body was broken. Tears sprang to my eyes at once, and I was wiping them away when one of the workmen told me that Nero had furnished them with the excuse they wanted for higher wages. If an office boy was to fall on their heads from an eighth story window, they must have at least four dollars more a day."

"Alas! Poor Nero Fell To His Death."

"There was an inquest, wasn't there?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"Yes, certainly. I had to attend the inquest and give my testimony. I wept while giving it, and the coroner paid me for it. He said that a noble heart beat in my breast."

"Yes, Mr. Bowser, you are very emotional. Did the boy have parents?"

"He had a father and a mother, and also a sister and a brother. It devolved upon me to convey the mortal remains to his home. It is needless to say that I wept most of the time while I was conveying. One incident of the way was leaving the corpse on the sidewalk below, and the next, he was among them kicking dead. Such is the fate of many office boys."

"Well, you got there?" said Mrs. Bowser, after giving Mr. Bowser time to wipe his weeping eyes again.

"Yes, at last I got there, and I found the family eating a late lunch. I had some sorrowful news for them, Mrs. Bowser, and I hardly knew how to communicate it. When they saw the tears in my eyes, and my chin trembling, they at once jumped to the conclusion that Nero had robbed me of ten thousand dollars' worth of Liberty bonds and gone off to Palm Beach for a vacation. They seemed greatly relieved when I told them to the contrary. The only thing that had happened to the boy was his death. They did not take the news so kindly as I hoped they would. In fact, they blamed me a good deal for it. Even when I stood before them with tears in my eyes, they stuck to it that I ought to have pulled him back out of the window by the hair of his head. They talked of suing me for fifty thousand dollars' damages."

"Why, they must be a hard-hearted family!" exclaimed Mrs. Bowser.

"Yes, I should judge they were. They had a dispute as to who should pay the undertaker, and they had another as to which cemetery he should be buried in. What seemed to them to be the worst thing about it, was the fact that they were all going to Coney Island or some other place that evening, and my bringing home the body of Nero knocked a hole in their program. They asked me about the price of the coffin and when I replied that for about a hundred dollars they could get one to fit Nero, they almost came to blows over it. It was their unanimous idea that about thirty dollars was all they ought to pay. They argued they were not to blame for Nero's death, and, that if he was idiot enough to take chances, any old way of getting him into the ground was good enough."

"What a family!" said Mrs. Bowser.

"Yes, I didn't know there were any such people in this world. Poor Nero's body was waiting outside, and they were fighting about his burial. When they were not 'jawing' each other, they were threatening me with a suit for damages."

"But will there be any suit?"

"No, I think not. We effected a compromise about that.

"What sort of a compromise?"

"Well, I lent the father $25 and he will probably never pay it. Nero had overdrawn his wages about $10, but I didn't say a thing about that. I handed over the $25 and got out, but the father and the brother may come here this evening to borrow $25 more, and I think I had better go to bed, and you can say to them, if they come, that I have gone out of town to attend a very important meeting. You can come to bed when you like."

The father and brother came, but they did not see Mr. Bowser. He had gone to bed with tears in his eyes, and Mrs. Bowser found them, rolling down his cheeks as he slept. Poor Nero—poor Mr. Bowser!

Elevators Foolproof.

Among the innovations in the new Ambassador hotel, Park avenue and Fifty-first street, New York, are the micro-self-leveling type of elevators, the first to be installed in New York. When the floor of the car is exactly at the floor level, the car stops. Then, and not until then, the doors may be opened. Passengers are thus protected by the double safety device, one which does away with all danger of stumbling or tripping, and which also makes it impossible to open or close the doors of the elevator shaft until the car is in the "safe" position.

Peanut's Nativity in Dispute.

Some important economic botanists believe that the weight of authority is in favor of accepting the peanut as a native of Brazil, and thus adding the peanut to the four other plants of high commercial importance which America has contributed to the agriculture of the world—cotton, corn, tobacco and the potato. Before the Civil war the United States imported peanuts from West Africa, and today, notwithstanding the remarkable increase in the production of American peanuts, they are imported from Spain, Africa, China and Japan.

Frog Shower at Gibraltar.

During a thunderstorm at Gibraltar recently a shower of frogs fell on the north front. Thousands of these small, leaping creatures were to be seen in the hedges and aroused much curiosity. Seven years ago a similar phenomenon occurred, and later a shower of sand covered everything with a pink deposit.

Affected by Vegetation.

Considered as a whole, the vegetation of a planet may give it a characteristic aspect as viewed from space. Many have thought that the red color of Mars may be due to the existence of red instead of green vegetation there. That its broad expanses of forest and prairie land cause the earth to reflect a considerable quantity of green light to its neighbors is indicated by the fact that at the time of the new moon a greenish tint has been detected encompassing that part of the lunar surface which is then illuminated only by light from the earth.

Olive Tree's Enemies.

Besides the birds, there are numerous insects which attack the fruit, the wood and the leaves of the olive tree. The most dreaded of these is a small fly called Dacus oleae, which is about half the size of a common house fly. The female has a sting like a wasp, with which she punctures the fruit where she deposits her eggs. It is calculated that a single fly will thus destroy 300 or 400 olives.

About Bores.

One of the foul notions young men get is that the bore doesn't know what is going on in the plant. We never yet have known a bore who didn't somehow manage to know more about what was going on in the concern than any of the employees gave him credit for. Or to put it another way: We've never known a bore who raises the jaw of a shirker under the false belief that he was a worker.—Exchange.

Where Men Carry Fans.

The folding fan came originally from Japan. In the East fans were carried by both sexes and were much used at important ceremonies. The Japanese had war fans, colored bright red, and there are some fans which have a small poignard concealed in the handle. The folding fan was introduced in England in Henry VIII's time, coming from Italy, to which it had been introduced by Catherine de Medici.

One reason, perhaps that friend farmer is having a harder time each year to make the old eighty pay is the changing scales in farm hands. Time was when a farm hand, sound of wind and limb, could be had for ten bucks a month and board. Now the feller wants an eight-hour day, sixty cents an hour and time and a half for overtime, and the right to take the farmer's prettiest daughter riding in the family Ford.

More Howlers.

A little girl was studying in Sunday school about the Acts of the Apostles. "Mother, did all the apostles get along with one ear?" she asked. Another little girl sang the line "This is heaven's borderland," as "Mrs. Evans for the land." She said she thought she was using the right words. Another Sunday-school pupil had in her lesson the word guidance. She told the teacher in a subdued voice that there were two words in the lesson that ought not to be in the Bible—guy and dance! A small boy, when asked how he liked school, replied that he liked the teacher all right, but didn't like to have so many "stupefiers" (supervisors) coming into his grade. Another boy said they all sat up straight when the teacher said "cigaret" (sit erect.) In a mission school my class was reading by verse, the parable of the ten talents. One little chap laboriously read, "I fear thee because thou art an oyster man."

The Harvest Moon.

The harvest moon is the one on or nearest to the 21st of September, harvest time. When nearly full it rises for several consecutive nights at about the same hour. A poetical playwright points out that it is a kindly arrangement of the Creator for the benefit of lovers. There is at that time a small angle between the moon's orbit and the horizon which causes this complaisance on the part of the queen of the night.

"Backwardation."

This peculiar word is a term used on the London stock exchange. A man sells stocks which he does not possess, promising delivery on a certain day. If at settling time the stock has not gone down to a point where he can make a profit on the transaction, he sometimes makes an arrangement with the purchaser of the stock whereby delivery is deferred, paying for this privilege an agreed amount of interest known as backwardation.

Little Real Graham Flour.

Graham flour derives its name from Sylvester Graham, a Connecticut clergyman, who advocated the use of unbolted wheat flour as more conducive to health than white flour. His contentions have been fully borne out by recent discoveries in regard to vitamines. Much of the so-called Graham flour sold now is, however, merely white flour mixed with a little bran, or flour so coarsely ground as to be unpalatable.

BOARDING WITH ONE'S WIFE

Remarkable Plan Adopted by Shrewd Jersey Man May Have Something to Recommend It.

The story of the seventy-five-year-old Jersey man who has just renewed a nine-year signed contract to board with his wife (her age is forty-five) at a fixed figure, and not to speak to her unless the house is burning down, stirs in old-timers' minds the refrain of a favorite song of Sol Smith Russell:

Oh, Ol'd like to know
Who runs this show.
Is it me or Flannigan, the lodger?

But, really, there isn't any lodger in the Jersey case, nor any "star-boarder," but the husband. The children are grown up. Three sons support the mother. If the aged father pays his board, he has no further responsibilities. And he has still a good job and is content. Also his wife is content.

Our reasonable guess it that she is a mighty good housekeeper, observes the Brooklyn Eagle. Nine years with no complaint possible, without contract-breaking, and a renewal at the end of the term is excellent evidence of that. There are no flies on her coffee and none in it. The steak is broiled and not fried. The bacon and chops are done to a turn. Even the hash must be eatable. Beds are properly aired and carefully made up. The boarder doesn't have to wait half an hour when he wants to take a bath. Hot water is available at all hours. Smoking in your room is permitted, probably encouraged.

Perhaps the habit of speaking to a wife, or having a wife speak to you has its disadvantages. It often develops acrimony, sometimes alimony. Every sociological experiment, such as the Jersey one, is entitled to be judged on its merits. The human race must live and learn by experimentation.

ROMAN RECORDS IN AFRICA

Discovery It Is Believed Will Throw Much Light on Early History of the Empire.

A discovery which, it is claimed, will form one of the fundamental sources for a history of the Roman empire under Augustus has been made recently by Dector Oliverio, an Italian savant in Cyrene, the ancient Greek colony in Africa, founded in the Seventh century.

A Morning Post correspondent, writing from Cyrene, says that excavations at Bengasi—the ancient Berenice, which stood in the midst of the gardens of the Hesperides, near the mouth of the River Lethe—have resulted in the unearthing of a block of marble eight feet long, one face of which bears a flawless Greek inscription of over one hundred lines; the translation of a letter from Augustus on the government and administration of justice in Cydenaica, giving a wonderful insight into the financial and judicial conditions of the country at that time.

Other interesting finds are a sanctuary dedicated to Eastern divinities probably of the time of Julian the Apostate, with a remarkably well-preserved black marble statue of an Egyptian goddess. An extensive Ptolemaic cemetery also has been located. At Apollonia, a Christian basilica of the Fifth century is being excavated, and at Merdj, the ancient Barce, some Cufic inscriptions have been found which are held to be of great importance when the history of the Arab conquest comes to be written.

Fight Plant Diseases.

While continual effort is being made to introduce promising new plants into the United States, the various branches of the Department of Agriculture are striving to avoid making additions to the imported insects and plant diseases that are already costing millions of dollars yearly. Foreign countries have listed several thousand insects of troublesome kind, with many plant diseases that are not yet included among these immigrants. Besides special quarantines and plant inspections the further precaution is being taken of restricting the numbers of the plants introduced and growing for a considerable time in greenhouses or under conditions of isolation, to make sure that all pests have been removed. After it is made certain that the plants are thoroughly freed from insects and diseases, they are propagated more extensively, and are distributed in the usual way to growers for experiment.

Aid for Struggling Authors.

Here is an item from the New York Globe of interest to impecunious writers: "It is not generally known that the Authors' league has a fund for authors who are in distress. Recently the league learned that a young woman who had won considerable distinction and prominence as a writer had through a series of misfortunes and through illness been reduced to dire distress. A representative called to see her and found her on the verge of a physical and nervous collapse, due to actual starvation. Immediate means were supplied her, and in order to give her an opportunity to regain her health and to get her back to her work a substantial amount was raised among the members to carry her through this period of enforced inactivity.

Noise Eliminated.

"You charge more for board than you did last summer."

"The place offers more rest and comfort," answered Farmer Corntassel. "There ain't any election for guests to sit up all night and argue about."

Objection to Smoke in Old.

In the Seventeenth century, during England's first smoke agitation, it was recommended that all factories be moved from the city to a distance of eight miles to remove the nuisance.

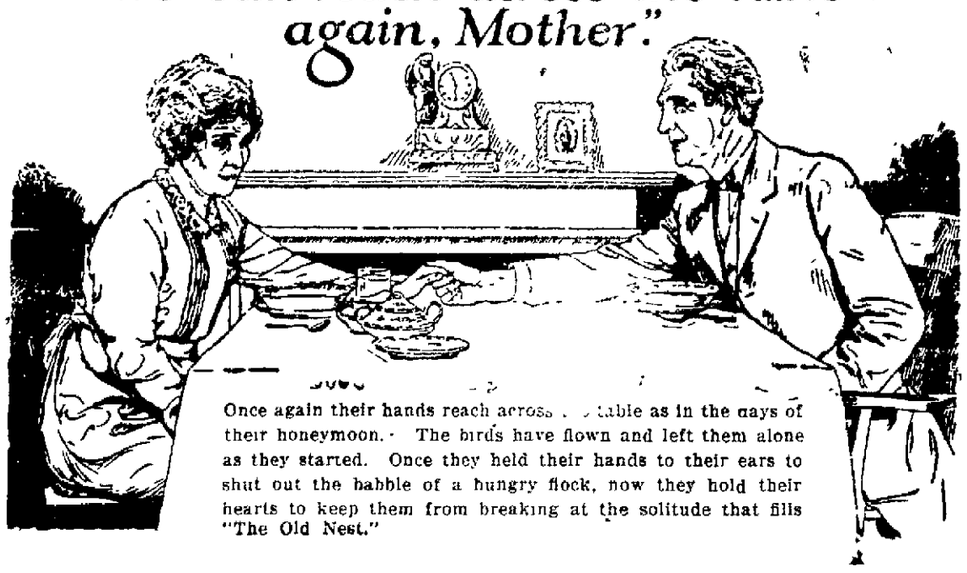
"We can reach across the table again, Mother."



Once again their hands reach across the table as in the days of their honeymoon. The birds have flown and left them alone as they started. Once they held their hands to their ears to shut out the babble of a hungry flock, now they hold their hearts to keep them from breaking at the solitude that fills "The Old Nest."

THE MOTHER WHOSE CHILDREN NO LONGER SEEMED TO WANT HER.

Suddenly they have all grown up and left her—the babies she used to tuck in bed at night. The old house is empty and silent. All have forgotten her. Her birthdays pass unnoticed.

Each child has embarked on a drama of his own. Loves, ambitions, temptations carry them away. There are moments of laughter and comedy, romance, adventure, tragedy. The story of their lives sweeps you along.

Your life—your home—your mother—as they might have been or as they are. "The Old Nest" will awaken deep in your heart memories of the mother to whom you ran with your childish troubles.

Never before has the screen touched with such beauty and dramatic force a subject which finds an echo in the lives of every one of us. One of the most heart-gripping dramatic stories ever narrated.

Misunderstood the Doctor.

Lawrence, age ten, had been slightly ailing for a few days, but not ill enough to affect his appetite seriously.

In his mother's absence, the grandmother had been carefully dieting him, much to his annoyance. Finally, in desperation, Lawrence appealed to the family physician for a list of foods he might safely eat. The physician named a long list of light foods, and Lawrence's joy was unbounded. However, the fates were against him and a "horrible conspiracy" was revealed at the next meal, when he learned that the doctor meant that not all of the list, but only a few articles from the list were to be eaten at one meal. He had anticipated a meal consisting of each and everything the doctor had named.

Ice Cream for China.

Thousands of gallons of ice cream are being shipped every month from Vancouver to China, the frozen dainty being forwarded in specially constructed containers holding about 500 gallons each. This fact was brought out in the course of an investigation to discover whether the prohibition era had any effect on the sale of ice cream and soft drinks.

BY-PRODUCTS OF LITERATURE

Authoress, Planning African Trip, Certainly Is Overlooking Nothing That Can Be Made Useful.

Using the by-products is the most characteristic feature of distinctly modern industry. How thoroughly this principle has been applied to literature comes out in an interview with a charming and able Chicago novelist who is taking her five-year-old daughter into Africa gorilla hunting with Carl Akeley's party.

The author in question will make the trip to collect local color, the basic material in the fiction industry. The first product will be a novel, with a movie to follow. But not all the local color which an Africa trip is bound to yield can be used in a novel, so the author plans to work over the waste in a travel book, which will find a ready sale to that small but choice public which has wearied of fiction. The third and rather special product will be the story of her small daughter's reaction to the adventure, which is expected to make another interesting book.

Each of the three books is a separate product of the basic local color; each will satisfy a certain special need and reach a public of its own. Between the fiction readers the armchair travelers and the students of the child-mind, this author pretty well covers the book-buying classes. Considering how little daughter will probably react when she sights her first gorilla, the "child reactions" book may fairly be called "untiring the squeal."—Chicago News.

ARBUCKLE OFF FOR LOS ANGELES

Following His Release on Bail After Dismissal of Murder Charge—Will Be Tried for Manslaughter Within 60 Days—Women Congratulate Him.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, free today after an 18 days imprisonment, and happy in the knowledge that he will not be forced to stand trial for murder as a result of the death of Virginia Rappe, film actress, prepared to return to Los Angeles.

Almost mobbed by scores of women who desired to shake his hand and shower congratulations on him following announcement of Judge Lazarus's decision late yesterday which held the comedian for manslaughter, but dismissed the murder charge demanded by District Attorney Brady, Arbuckle last night sought seclusion.

"Thanks, I'm glad it's over for a time at least," was the extent of the film funmaker's comment on the decision of the court which he received perhaps more calmly than anyone else in the court room. But his missing smile reappeared to express his feelings.

District Attorney Brady has 30 days in which to file the information based on the finding of Judge Lazarus yesterday. He has announced that he will proceed on the police court holding rather than the grand jury indictment, which will be permitted to die. After the filing of the information, Arbuckle will appear to enter his plea, after which a date for the trial will be set.

"Trial within sixty days," was the concensus of opinion of attorneys on both sides today.

COMMITTEE SPLIT ON FORD REPORT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The special committee of the senate which investigated Henry Ford's election fraud charges against Senator Truman H. Newberry, Republican, of Michigan, split on straight party lines today in submitting conflicting reports of its inquiry.

Newberry was absolved from all blame in the report submitted by three of his Republican colleagues while the Democratic minority report held that he was entirely culpable for the expenditure of approximately $200,000 in the Michigan primary election of 1918.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 29.—There was a better tone to the stock market at the stock market at the opening today, small advances being made in practically everything traded in. Dealings, however, continued small. Steel common rose ¼ to 79, and Baldwin improved ⅜ to 86¼. Mexican Petroleum rose 1⅜ to 101½ and Pan-American Petroleum was ¾ higher at 46¼. The rails showed fractional upturns. Burns Brothers continued in demand, establishing a new high mark at 106½, a gain of over one point. Continental Can and United Fruit rose one point.

A feature of the trading was the activity and strength that developed during the first hour in the railroad issues. St. Paul preferred was one of the prominent features, moving up over one point to 40⅞ and Southern Pacific was actively bought, moving up ⅝ to 79½. Baldwin Locomotive made an advance of 2 points to 87½. Crucible Steel sold from 62¾ to 64. The oil issues were improved by the further report of advances in crude oil. Mexican Petroleum making a gain of 2⅜ points to 103½ and Pan-American Petroleum was up 1⅞ to 47⅜. Burns Brothers rose 4½ points to 109½.

Shortly after noon another vigorous buying movement developed in the market, carrying prices up to the highest range made when bull activities were in full progress a few weeks ago.

When Dogs Bark.

It is rather curious that dogs bark only when they are connected with human beings in some fashion; for instance when a burglar is suspected to be near. When the dog is alone, he is given to groans, growls, howls or whines. Possibly the act of barking is the dog's method of talking. It would seem like it when your pet dog sees you carrying food and barks as if he were asking for it. Another dog, which is in the habit of going to bed at sundown, will bark to tell you that he is ready when the time comes.

To Subdue the Light.

To modify the too-brilliant stream of light that falls from an electric lamp which has a porcelain globe it is a good idea to make a shallow lining of the thinnest silk in very pale flesh color or ivory, mount it on a heavy wire or feather boning loop which will fit the lower part of the porcelain shade and draw the bottom together, finishing it with a Chinese tassel. Chiffon or any very diaphanous material is equally good for making this shade.

Raven Distinctly Unpopular.

The raven, apparently, has gained little in the affections of the people from its kindly act of supplying Elijah with food when the prophet was hungry. It is regarded as a bird of ill omen wherever its black shadow appears. Apparently, the good folk of the countryside look on the raven as a sinister bird, and it has not been able to shake from its feathers their evil repute, though it be largely undeserved.

The Shortest Chapter?

A London newspaper trying to find the novel with the shortest chapter concluded that the prize went to Bulwer-Lytton, in whose "What Will He Do With It?" the chapter headed "Denouement" consists of only one word "Poodle;" but an English critic has hastened to announce that the shortest chapters in existence are in Laurence Sterne's "Tristram Shandy," for in chapters 18 and 19 Sterne put nothing but dashes.

THIS RIDE A REAL THRILLER

Ascent by Elevator to Summit of Alpine Peak Worth Going Long Journey to Take.

For years one of the most thrilling incidents of a visit to the Alps has been the ascent of the Jungfrau on the cog-rail road that starts from Kleine Scheidegg, at an elevation of 6,711 feet and climbs the mountainside at the startling grade of 25 per cent, or an angle of about 22 degrees, till it reaches Jungfraujoch, at an elevation of 11,339 feet.

In an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine is told how it is now proposed to add to this wonderful experience in mountain climbing a still further thrill, by comparison with which the former will appear quite insipid. From the present end of the track the mountain soars another 2,206 feet to the summit at an elevation of 13,547 feet. By means of excavations and tunnels the track will be extended until it reaches a spot in the center of the conical summit directly below its highest point. From the end of this tunnel a shaft will be bored vertically to the summit itself, and in this shaft passenger elevators will be installed, so that Alpine mountaineers will end their long thrilling railroad climb with an elevator trip like an exaggerated ride to the top of the Woolworth building in New York city. The climax will find them landed at the extreme summit of one of the highest peaks in the Alps, with a view of a world of snow-clad, craggy mountain tops around them.

Use for Exhaust Gas.

At its point of issue from the cylinder the exhaust has a temperature of from 800 degrees to 1,000 degrees F., and consists almost entirely of carbon dioxide—a colorless and odorless gas. These properties make it suitable for carbonizing wood, that is to say, making charcoal, and it is now being utilized for that purpose in France. The hot gases are caused to traverse a specially constructed oven, in which the wood is suitably arranged, by which means the temperature of the wood is raised to about 500 degrees, which carbonizes without burning or igniting it. Many ovens of this type were installed during the war, in Algeria and Tunis, with the object of furnishing a substitute for anthracite coal, which was very scarce and dear, for use in enriching low-grade gas for motor purposes.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

"Good Neighbors."

Mrs. Merriweather and her four small children lived in a little house in ——— street, where the neighbors were exceedingly friendly over the back fence, and made many back-door calls. Mrs. M. began to worry about the children and their surroundings as they grew older, and moved to another part of the town. Shortly after moving away Geraldine met one of the old neighbors who inquired as to how she liked her new home and the neighbors. Geraldine, being only seven and honest, replied:

"We like our new home all right, but we haven't any good neighbors now—they all stay home and mind their own business."—Indianapolis News.

Daniel Boone's Mark.

That Daniel Boone, famed Kentucky hunter, made an expedition into Wayne and Lincoln county during his career is the belief of a party of lumberjacks who recently discovered the name "D. Boone" chiseled in a large rock at the mouth of a cave on Pond Fork of Four Mile creek, Lincoln county, near the Wayne line. The forms of the letters are said to correspond with the name of Boone which is found carved in the rocks of Kentucky. The rock bearing the name in Lincoln county is located in a remote and wild section.—Huntington (W. Va.) Advertiser.

GUARANTEED

Both the principal and dividends of this stock are guaranteed unconditionally, through endorsement on each certificate, by the BUSH TERMINAL COMPANY—owners of the entire outstanding common stock of the Bush Terminal Buildings Company.

This preferred stock is thus in effect a joint obligation of both the Bush Terminal Company and the Bush Terminal Buildings Company. The combined earnings of these two companies from 1915 to date are as follows:

*1921 figures are based on actual earnings for the first 6 months of 1921.

Note that surplus earnings have almost doubled during the last seven years and have averaged more than five times the dividend requirements of this preferred stock.

This Company has proven its consistent earning power through both good times and bad. During the war most of the Company's docks, warehouses, buildings and railroads were used by the Government at pre-war rentals. Since then, new, long-term leases have been signed at very substantial increases.

The principal sources of income of the Bush Terminal Companies are: Rentals from leases of Steamship Piers; Rentals from Warehouses; Revenue from Cold Storage; Revenue from handling of Merchandise; Revenue from Railroad Transportation; Revenue from Storage; Rentals from tenants of Loft, Manufacturing, Office and Exhibit Buildings.

Among the Company's lessees are many of the largest and oldest steamship and manufacturing companies in the United States.

RECOMMENDATION

We recommend this Bush Terminal Buildings Company Guaranteed Preferred Stock as adequately and abundantly safeguarded, and a security that will grow in value. The business has been in successful operation for many years; it is an essential adjunct to the commerce and business of New York City and the nation; it is stable, as its revenue is largely from long-term leases; it is widely diversified, serving every type and kind of business. Since this stock is not redeemable under $120 per share, it presents a wonderful opportunity for very substantial appreciation in value and an assured, long-time 8% investment.

GIANTS CALL DEEGAN.

Ordered To Report In New York Friday Morning.

All members of the Colonial Baseball team who can make the necessary arrangements are planning on seeing the testimonial game Friday between the New York Giants and the Boston Braves, the entire receipts of the game to be turned over to Christy Mathewson. The former Giant star is now in the Adirondacks, fighting to regain his shattered health.

Incidentally, the Colonials hope to see Matty Deegan cavorting around in the infield with the Giants. Matty has been ordered to be on hand for the Friday morning practice session, and leaves for New York today. "Shoes" Hamann, who pitched for the Schatz Club here last Saturday, has also been ordered to report.

Safeguard From Influenza.

During an epidemic of cerebro-spinal meningitis in Uganda, Dr. J. A. Taylor found that a drop or two of iodine on the tongue was useful in preventing persons from catching it. This led him to try it for the same purpose in an epidemic of influenza. The result was that among Europeans, all of whom took the iodine, there was not a single case, although many of them were in daily contact with persons suffering from the disease. Dr. Taylor mixes tincture of iodine (B. P.) and honey in equal parts and places two or three drops of this on the tongue every three hours. Of course he isolates patients as well.

The Satellites.

Certain celestial bodies which revolve round some of the planets, as these latter revolve round the sun, are called satellites. Astronomers sometimes apply to them the term "secondary planets." The earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune each have one or more of these attendants. The motion of all the satellites except the eighth satellite of Jupiter; Phoebe, the ninth satellite of Saturn, and those of Uranus and Neptune, is direct, that is, from west to east. The theory of the motions of the most prominent of the satellites has been found to coincide with that of the moon.

FACTS OF HISTORIC INTEREST

Revealed by Extensive Excavations on Sites of Revolutionary Camps on the Hudson Heights.

Three years of excavating on sites of Revolutionary camps in the Hudson highlands, near West Point, has enabled a commission of the New York Historical society to establish interesting historical facts that have long been in dispute.

The chief source of information has been refuse heaps of the armed camps of Washington, and many facts have been learned merely from examining the buttons in the old dumps. Examination of cooking utensils and cutlery, broken pottery and other imperishable articles has aided the commission. The buttons, still showing the insignia after a century and a half, show that ten Massachusetts regiments fine from Connecticut and one from Rhode Island, occupied the main fortress in the highlands. Buttons worn in one camp by Connecticut soldiers bore an imprint in honor of the birth of the French dauphin, showing that the soldiers were in camp after 1781.

Similar investigation on the sites of British camps show their troops lived in much more luxury than the men who won independence for America. Silver buckles, china, and much broken glass from rum containers tell the story of the invaders' rations. The Revolutionary troops used hand-forged forks, pewter spoons, and left no broken glass.

The excavations have also revealed the extent of certain fortifications, and forts have been discovered of which there was no record.

"THE OLD NEST" APPROVED HERE

"The Old Nest," which will be presented at Keeney's Theatre for the rest of the week, afternoons and evenings, was shown this afternoon and at the conclusion of the performance everyone agreed that the picture was one of the best which has been shown in Kingston in a long time Rupert Hughes's story, "The Old Nest," is the first sincere and realistic treatment of the most sacred and beautiful of all themes, a mother's love for her children. The background upon which this wonderful drama unfolds is the simple old-fashioned home of a typical American family.

Insect Causes "Jumps."

Certain galls of the oak-tree that display a mysterious ability to "jump" or at least make sudden movements, have long been the subject of unscientific curiosity. It is explained that their motive power is, as in the case of the famous Mexican "jumping bean," a tiny worm—the larva of a gallfly, whose quick turns disturb the gall's center of gravity and cause it to "jump"

They have recently been experimenting in England on the best support for pictures, and the Scientific American says it was found that plain copper wire in one strand is far superior to twisted brass wire, and copper wire is of course not liable to rust.
